ABOUT ME

Currently I am a student at Sacramento State, majoring in Interior Architecture and Design. In middle school and high school, I had a strong passion to sketch landscapes and still portraits. Going into high school I took many art classes aside from my general coursework that prepared me for college. After graduating, I started to explore my options and started leaning towards applied art and design, took a few classes in that category, and other general education courses to be ready for transferring. Creating and designing a plan for a space sparked my interest at Sierra College when I took an AutoCad class, it opened up a new door for me that veered a path towards similar majors at Sacramento State. I found the interior architecture design degree and am very pleased at the program they have to offer. The courses challenge me and further progress my skills for future projects. By the beginning of the 2017 year, I hope to acquire a position with an architecture firm in the Sacramento area to start my experience with the NCARB.
